

Geometric constructions of certain buildings

Magali Victoor

The definition of a building is very general and abstract, which does not make it easy to understand. We can however give other definitions of certain buildings which are more accessible. I will discuss some different perspectives to look at these geometries in order to understand them better. This also leads to embeddings in projective spaces and geometric constructions of these buildings.